

SANTA ANA TO WELCOME NEW YEAR

Vanguard Of State Legislature Arrives In Capital

LEADERS OF STOCKS HOLD GAINS IN LAST SESSION OF YEAR

BOTH HOUSES IN CAUCUSES

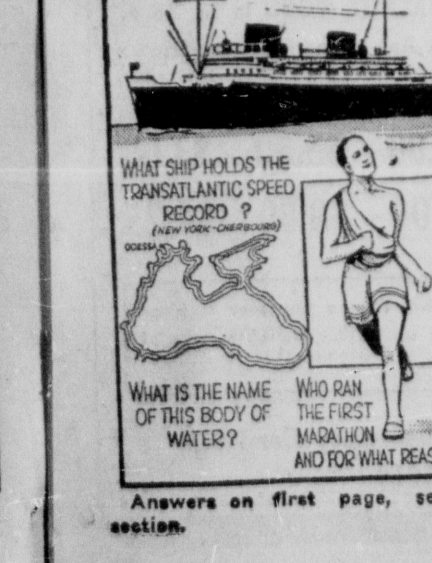

Walter Little Assured of Speakership at Opening of Session January 2 TO RE-ELECT BEEK
Balboa Man Certain to Be Retained as Secretary of Senate, Reports Say

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Dec. 31.—(UP)—Lawmakers from all parts of California were flocking into Sacramento today for the opening of the 1933 session of the state legislature Monday morning.
Pre-session caucuses by leaders of both houses had definitely determined that there would be no rows over organization of the senate and assembly.
Assemblyman Walter J. Little of Santa Monica, who lost the speakership to Edgar C. Levey of San Francisco by one vote in 1931, was assured of election at the opening of the session Monday. He has 65 votes pledged, or more than enough to land the job.
Assemblyman Percy G. West of Sacramento and F. C. Cloudsley of Stockton, a Democrat, are candidates for speaker pro tem, with West standing the best chance to win this honor.
On the senate side, the veteran Senator Arthur H. Breed of Oakland is slated for president pro tem, although a group of rural legislators still hoped to get the position for Senator W. P. Rich of Marysville, one of their number.

Beek Secretary
The senate will again elect Joseph A. Beek of Balboa as secretary; Paul Mason of Sacramento as assistant secretary, and Joseph F. Nolan of Los Angeles as sergeant-at-arms.
A lively contest is expected for the position of minute clerk, vacated by Harold J. Powers of Modoc county, who was elected senator. The candidates include former Assemblyman Cliff Brooks of Oakland, Jerry Scofield of Los Angeles, and Michael Schmitz of San Francisco.
Arthur A. Ohnmus of San Francisco is slated for re-election as chief clerk of the assembly, and Louis F. Erb, San Francisco, as minute clerk.
Under a new policy to be proposed to the legislature at this session, the 100-odd jobs during the legislature, ranging from $2.50 a day for pages to $7 for assistant secretaries and file clerks, will go to unemployed men who have families depending upon them. This includes even the page positions, which have usually gone to the sons of members.
The customary courtesy of allowing the governor to name the chairman of the senate finance committee. But even the governor doesn't know yet who will fill the position.
Senator Ralph E. Swing of San Bernardino, who served as chair-

ROOSEVELT TO LEAVE OFFICE THIS EVENING

Will Return to Albany on Monday to Attend Inaugural of Lehman

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 31.—(UP)—President-elect Roosevelt leaves office as governor of the most populous state in the union tonight to become a private citizen, free to devote all his time to the problems of the nation he will guide after March 4.

This transition means that Roosevelt, the office he took over from his illustrious predecessor, Alfred E. Smith, will pass to Colonel Herbert H. Lehman at the stroke of 12 tonight. Lehman is the lieutenant governor Mr. Roosevelt has called "my good right arm."

This transition means that Roosevelt, the office he took over from his illustrious predecessor, Alfred E. Smith, will pass to Colonel Herbert H. Lehman at the stroke of 12 tonight. Lehman is the lieutenant governor Mr. Roosevelt has called "my good right arm."

On Tuesday, Roosevelt will go to his New York city home where he plans political conferences for two or three days. Weekends he will spend in the country with members of his family.
One of his first discussions of major importance as a private citizen will be that with Speaker Garner.
Plans also call for Roosevelt to take a cruise through tropical waters in February.

MOTHER AND FATHER ACCUSED IN DEATH

LIBERAL, Kans., Dec. 31.—(UP)—County Attorney John Kling today drew fourth degree manslaughter charges against Adley Palmer and his wife after a coroner's jury ruled neglect caused the death of their 17 month old baby Christmas eve.
Franklin ruled the baby, Gene Palmer, died from exhaustion after efforts to free himself from the straps with which his parents bound him in a box.
Officers testified the parents said they strapped the boy in the box the night of Dec. 23rd when he became restless.

WILL REPORT FARM RELIEF BILL SOON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—(UP)—Chairman Jones of the House agricultural committee announced today his committee would favorably report a farm relief program not later than Wednesday of next week.
The announcement followed a session of the committee devoted to consideration of the so-called "domestic allotment" plan of agricultural relief.
Jones said no formal decision as to the exact terms of the bill would be made before Tuesday of next week.

LEAVES OFFICE

Franklyn D. Roosevelt, who ends reign as governor of New York this evening. He will become president of the United States on March 4.

S. A. BANKS TO PAY $163,525 ON NEW YEARS

Interest and Dividends of Local Institutions to Reach High Total

RESIDENTS OF Santa Ana who have bank savings deposits or who hold bank stock will start the New Year with an aggregate of $163,525 in their pockets as banks of the city pay out the interest on term deposits and distribute dividends payable at this time, it was learned today following a check made of all five of Santa Ana's banking institutions.
The $163,000 is put part of the total amount paid to Santa Ana bank depositors and stock holders during the year which is just ending. The total amount paid out for interest on term deposits and in dividends for the past year amounts to approximately $403,000, the survey revealed.
Today the First National bank had paid its depositors $21,450 for interest due for the six months period just ended, and had paid stock holders a total of $33,750 for the same period.
The Security First National bank, Santa Ana branch, paid interest to depositors for the six months, a total of $11,000 while the regular quarterly dividends amounted to $36,000.
According to bank officials, the Santa Ana branch of the Bank of America today had paid depositors around $16,000 in interest for the past six months.
The Farmers and Merchants Savings bank paid out a total of $35,000 in interest on term deposits for accounts during the past six months.
Commercial National bank officials have and are paying out a total of $16,295 for the past six months interest.

HENRY FORD LEADS 200 AT DANCING

DEARBORN, Mich., Dec. 31.—(UP)—Henry Ford and Mrs. Ford led a group of 200 guests through the intricacies of the five step schottische and the valse viennoise last night in the billionaire motor manufacturer's first public appearance since his recent operation.
The occasion was the premier of the Ford's seasonal old-fashioned dances, and the guests danced the waltzes and quadrilles of other years in the ultra-modern engineering laboratories of the Ford Motor company.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR RUTH JUDD RECOMMENDED

Grand Jury Believes Story, Convinced Slayer Shot in Self Defense

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 31.—(UP)—The Arizona state board of pardons and paroles became the sanctuary of hope for Winnie Ruth Judd today, fighting hard to escape the gallows to which she was condemned for the murder of Agnes An Lerol.
Her hope for clemency was revived when the county grand jury after indicting John J. (Happy Jack) Halloran as an alleged accessory after the murder, "strongly" recommended her sentence be commuted to life imprisonment. The grand jurors expressed their conviction the doomed woman shot in self defense when she killed Mrs. Lerol.
Halloran, a wealthy local lumberman, was free on $3000 bail, pending arraignment next Tuesday. He frequently had been drawn into the case by stories of the condemned murderess that she helped dispose of the bodies of Mrs. Lerol and her friend, Hedvig Samuelson, whom she also is accused of killing.
By recommending leniency for Mrs. Judd, the grand jury placed the issue squarely before the state board of pardons and paroles, which supercedes the governor in authority in this state.
The grand jurors revealed they believed Mrs. Judd when she appeared before them three days and reportedly told "the whole story of how she killed her two friends after a jealous quarrel over Halloran's affection."
Referring to counsel applied to the late Paul W. Schenck, Los Angeles criminal lawyer, who refused to let his client testify during her trial.
County Prosecutor Lloyd Andrews was incensed by the grand jury action.
Her attorneys were cheered but intimidated they would go ahead with plans to appeal the case to the United States supreme court without waiting for the pardon board to act. Their first step would be to file writs of habeas corpus and certiorari in federal district court.
Halloran appeared to be little surprised at the indictment which briefly accuses him of "wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously concealing the commission of crime from the magistrate and did harbor and protect the person of said Winnie Ruth Judd." He left his wife and two children at home and immediately went to the courthouse where waiting reading of the true bill, he produced a cashier's check for the bail and then departed.

FIVE YEAR PLAN IN RUSSIA TERMINATES

MOSCOW, Dec. 31.—(UP)—The Soviet government's five year plan of industrialization ended officially today, with the Kremlin claiming completion in four years and three months, and critics claiming another year will be required.
The second five year plan starts officially tomorrow, with the advance publicity reduced notably compared with that accorded the first plan in the Soviet press a few months ago. High government officials are known to have considered whether 1933 might be considered as a bridge between the first and second plans, in an attempt to improve the existing industrial structure instead of trying for further expansion.

LEGISLATOR IS BROKE; WALKS TO SACRAMENTO

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 31.—(UP)—James S. O'Connor, the "penniless legislator" was to start today on a 388-mile hike to Sacramento, accompanied by his 13-year-old son James Jr.
"I'm broke, my committee's broke and I don't want to be financially obligated to anybody," the Democratic assemblyman said.
O'Connor will receive traveling money from the state. He said he would send his three other children who will remain at home. He said he had been out of work two years and that friends contributed $115.50 in nickels, dimes and quarters for his campaign fund.

CONGRESS LEADERS TO MEET ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—(UP)—Congressional Democratic leaders from both senate and house plan to confer with President-elect Roosevelt in New York City next Thursday, it was learned today. Mr. Roosevelt had announced this intention from Albany, but no definite date was set.
Included among those expected to attend were Speaker Garner, House Majority Leader Rainey, House whip McDuffie, and Chairman Byrnes of the Appropriations committee.
Among senate leaders to be present are Senator Harrison of Mississippi, Robinson, Ark., and Byrnes, South Carolina.

Public Dance Marks End Of Depression

NORTHFORK, Calif., Dec. 31.—(UP)—Northfork, Madera county mountain town, tonight will celebrate "the end of the depression" with a dance and other merry-making.
The end of the depression, residents said, was heralded by the fact that the town's unemployed—or most of them—had found jobs within the past few weeks.

LARGEST FISH OF DAY LANDED BY PRESIDENT

Hoover and Party Off for Barracuda Today After Big Day Friday

THE SAIL FISH CLUB, PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 31.—(UP)—President Hoover, happy after his fishing luck of yesterday when he hooked three sailfish and a dolphin, went after the tiger of the seas—the barracuda—today.
The president and all his fishing party caught fish yesterday, but the president's catch was the biggest, and he also caught the largest fish, a sailfish measuring seven feet eight inches.
The president sailed up and down the coast under a blazing sun all day yesterday, and came in at dusk, tired, sunburned and smilingly happy. Then as the party put out early this morning in the sloop Orca, commanded by the veteran Capt. Herman Gray, a friendly rivalry had sprung up among members of the party.
"The president is in fine spirits and happy to be in the thick of the sport," said his secretary, Lawrence Richey. "If we have as good luck again as yesterday, we shan't complain. They're biting fine."
The party will be forced to go farther than yesterday when they went two miles offshore to go after the fighting barracuda, reported biting well.
The president got a fight from one of his sailfish. He played the fish for 15 minutes and hooked it in. Capt. Gray reached over to hook it. Then the fish began to fight and put up a good battle for half an hour.
When Mr. Hoover was received officially by a delegation from the Palm Beach chamber of commerce last night and made an honorary member of the Sailfish club, he gave the club his big fish which will be stuffed and mounted.
Everyone, even the newspaperman, in the party caught a fish yesterday.

YOUTH KILLED IN CRASH WITH TRAIN

EL CERRITO, Calif., Dec. 31.—(UP)—Enthusiastic antics of a Sacramento youth who rode his motorcycle up and down Fairmount avenue ended disastrously early today when he failed to beat a Santa Fe train over a crossing.
The youth, William Ambrey, 16, of 3311 Santa Cruz way, Sacramento, was killed instantly when he was catapulted between the locomotive and tender. Witnesses said he was traveling fast and crashed directly behind the cab, his body dropping under the wheels.
He had been performing stunts on his motorcycle for some time before the accident.

Grain Shows Advance As Bonds Firm

Dull Trading Marks Final Day of Year on Stock Exchange in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—(UP)—Trading turned dull in all save aviation shares on the stock exchange today and the list held the gains of the last three sessions. The closing was higher than the previous week's.
Grains gained fractionally. Cotton trading was suspended for a long New Year's holiday. Bonds ruled firm with railroad issues in demand.
Many traders were away from the financial community until next Tuesday when the first session of 1933 will begin. Much of the business today was evening up for the year end. There were many cash sales, related tax selling, and a small amount of short covering.
A block of 8,400 shares of Curtiss Wright sold at 2 1-8, up 1-4 point while 5,100 shares of North American Aviation came out at 6 1-2. The latter then rose to 6 5-8, and a new high for the year. Douglas Aircraft rose nearly 2 points while Aviation Corporation gained fractionally. United Aircraft eased slightly.
Steel common held slightly above the previous close while preferred slipped back after early steadiness. Firmness in the common was still inspired by outlook for another wage reduction by the corporation after the first of the year.
Automobile shares were dull and irregular, in contrast with their performance in other years.
Tobacco shares were easier but less active. Oils held well as did farm equipments. Railroad and utility shares were steady to firm.
The weekly figures on our loadings were not released today because of the holidays. Canadian car loadings for the week ended Dec. 24 totaled 31,763 cars, a decline of 4,371 from the preceding week.
News was mostly favorable for the market.

WATCH NIGHT SERVICES TO BE HELD HERE

Scores of Private Parties Scheduled to Be Held in Many Homes of City
DANCES ARE PLANNED
Peace Officers of County Will Not Tolerate Any Infractions of Dry Law

FORGETTING the trials and disappointments of the past year and looking ahead with a spirit of optimism for 1933 the people of Santa Ana are prepared to greet the infant New Year at midnight tonight.

Legal observation of New Year day, as a holiday, is scheduled for Monday when all city and county offices will be closed as will the post office and the majority of business houses. There will be no city or rural mail delivery on that day.

Three churches have scheduled Watch Night services for tonight and will usher in the new year with prayer and song. At the Four Square Gospel Tabernacle the services will start at 9:30 and will feature short talks by ministers of the various Four Square Tabernacles in the county and workers in the church. Promptly at midnight the congregation will kneel in prayer and that church will usher in the New Year in reverent supplication.

At St. Joseph's church special new year services will be conducted tonight starting at 7 o'clock. All Catholics and non-Catholics are invited to attend this service. At the church of the United Brethren services will start tonight at 8 o'clock and continue until past midnight. The Rev. Samuel Edgar, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church will deliver the address.

Private Parties
Scores of private parties have been scheduled for tonight where friends will gather and greet the New Year. These parties will take the form of social gatherings culminating with a vociferous welcome to the baby 1933 at midnight.

Dance halls of the county have scheduled special features for tonight but will have them completed by 12 o'clock, at those dance halls in unincorporated areas. This

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, Dec. 31. (To the Editor of The Register.) Say, good joke on us. We thought Congress had adjourned and here they are in session. Now that's the kind of Congress we want, one where we don't know if they are in session or out of session.
See where Insull is going to do like a movie star, he is going to make a "personal appearance" tour all over Europe.
France loaned Austria almost as much as she was to pay us, but she is wet nursing four or five of those little nations. They don't have to pay her back till the next war. You see in Europe they are already choosing sides. On account of the depression France can get a lot of nations signed up mighty cheap now.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS

CORONER ACTS IN 230 CASES DURING YEAR

The Orange county coroner's office made investigations into a total of 230 cases where death came suddenly to people in the county during the year 1932, coroner Earl J. Abbott, deputy coroner, revealed today.

Of this number, there were 127 persons who died from natural causes, while 152 persons died from accidents. Of the 152, 117 were men and 35 were women. A total of 94 inquests were held over 104 bodies during the year and there was a total of 120 persons who met death in accidents, most of which were from automobile crashes.

Coroner Earl Abbott's records show a total of 52 auto crash victims, while The Register records show 85 persons killed in crashes or as a result of auto wrecks. The difference is due to the fact that three persons who died as a result of being in an accident, which took place in Orange county, died in hospitals outside the county. The coroner naturally was not called in these three cases. The other deaths were those of a baby burned to death in a house destroyed by a blaze resulting from an auto accident.

Eleven men were drowned accidentally. Two men and two women, pedestrians, were killed in railroad accidents. One man was killed in a hunting accident and two boys were accidentally shot to death. One man and another were killed under tractor fire. Two men died in a burning house while they were committing arson, the records show.

Three women and one man died of burns otherwise received. One man and one woman were asphyxiated, both being found on the same day at Seal Beach. One died of accidental poisoning. One was fatally injured in a fist fight. One man was killed while trimming a tree.

The collapse of the oil industry has affected the coroner's business, records show, with only one industrial fatality during the year. During the oil boom of former years there were usually a score of industrial deaths.

The coroner's lists include five premature births.

Among the suicides the pistol wound was most popular, 14 of the 29 victims using that weapon. All were men. Three men hung themselves, one used a razor blade, two chose carbon monoxide gas, two employed cyanide and three swallowed strychnine. The four women suicides were of as many methods. One chose hanging, one drowning, one strychnine and one carbon monoxide gas.

YOUTHS CAUGHT IN R. R. YARDS HELD

Two youths, caught last night after a chase in the railroad yards of the Santa Fe railroad by Santa Ana police officers were lodged in the county jail for investigation, after several pass keys and a number of files were reported found on their person.

The boys gave the names of Earl J. Quillen, 17, and Salvatore A. Arguello, 16, both of San Ysidro, in San Diego county.

Santa Ana police communicated with the sheriff's office at San Diego which is today making an investigation of the boys.

The youths were seen in the yards and when officers started to talk with them, broke away and ran. They were soon overtaken, however.

Sling Shot Missile Hits Boy In Eye

Lloyd Olds, youth residing at 1805 1-2 West Second street, was struck in the eye, yesterday afternoon with a missile from a sling shot, police were informed.

An attempt was made to find the boy who shot the Olds youth, but he was not found. Young Olds was not believed to have been badly hurt.

PIANIST WILL BE SOLOIST AT CLUB CONCERT TUESDAY

Mlle. Marie Mikova, brilliant pianist of Los Angeles, has been secured by the Cadman Choral club for its program in the Elbell clubhouse Tuesday evening. It was announced today, following word that Concertmaster Albert Angermayer of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra would be unable to appear here on account of another engagement.

Mlle. Mikova has appeared with several noted orchestras in the United States and Europe, and was connected with the Treble Club here two years ago. She also played on Hollywood Bowl programs this summer.

The Cadman Choral club announces Mlle. Mikova's program as follows: 1. Theme—Variety Opus—(Paderewski); 2. (a) Melody (Dal Young); (b) Diversion (Carpenter); (c) Nocturne (Frodoles); (d) Festive (Smetana).

Several vocal numbers will be presented by the club.

MORE BABIES BORN DURING 1932 AT COUNTY HOSPITAL

A marked increase in the number of babies born at the Orange county hospital in 1932 over 1931 is noted and which, according to the hospital is probably due to the economic conditions of the country.

Depression caused a number of families to have their children at the county institution this year, so where an increase is seen at the county hospital, a decrease is noted at the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where there is no free service.

At the Orange county hospital there was a total of 198 babies born, up to and including yesterday. In 1931 there were only 139. At the Santa Ana Valley hospital there were 186 babies born in 1932 as compared with 226 in 1931. The 1932 figure is the largest in the history of the hospital.

Premature births.

TERRY STEPHENSON TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

Greatly improved, and continuing to show daily improvement, Postmaster T. E. Stephenson will be removed to his residence at 1522 North Broadway tomorrow from St. Joseph's hospital where he has been confined more than a month.

Stephenson has been suffering from peritonitis which followed an acute attack of appendicitis November 25. He submitted to an operation for an abdominal abscess two weeks ago and has made steady progress ever since. He is now able to greet friends.

FEW HEATERS AGAIN LIGHTED IN COUNTY

Citrus growers in various parts of Orange county were forced to light smudge pots again last night to protect fruit from frost. Temperatures in the county went as low as 28 degrees during the early morning hours, but the cold did not last long enough to constitute more than a temporary menace to the citrus crops, growers say.

The coldest period in Santa Ana came at 4 o'clock this morning when a temperature of 47 degrees was registered on the thermometer at the First National bank.

Locusts have seriously damaged Urgus's wheat crop.

The Netherlands will increase income taxes.

SANTA ANA TO OBSERVE NEW YEAR TONIGHT

is necessary because of the county ordinance which forbids Sunday dancing. In the incorporated areas, however, joy will be unrestrained.

City and county officials are calling attention of revelers to the fact that despite the announcement from Los Angeles that police there will wink at liquor drinking tonight but will enforce ordinances relative to drunkenness, disturbing the peace and state laws regarding drunken driving, there will be no slackening of observation of all laws in Orange county. The city and county still have liquor laws that are operative.

Through the courtesy of the Rev. E. W. Matz, the First Evangelical church at the northeast corner of Tenth and Main streets, will be turned over to the Unemployed Association of Santa Ana for an evening of Sunday, January 1, for a special service for the members of the organization. The service will begin at 7 p. m.

Musical Program The Rev. Mr. Matz will make a short address to the congregation after which the church choir will put on a musical program, during which Agnes Genest, soloist from the Unemployed association, will render several selections. The balance of the evening will be turned over to the officers of the association who will review the activities of the organization, outlining its purpose and methods of operation.

Interest in church services tomorrow center less in the pagents, music and display of a week ago than in the pulpits messages, which Santa Anans are counting upon to embody a spiritual comfort and prophetic hope traditional with New Year's Day preachments the world over.

Despite this shift of interest, several churches are amplifying their Sunday programs with special presentations, musical and dramatic, while others have announced Watchnight services this evening, and one program has been arranged as a New Year's service for the unemployed. The latter will take place tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the First Evangelical church, of which the Rev. E. W. Matz is pastor.

Two New Year's Eve exercises scheduled for tonight will be held at the Trinity Lutheran church (Missouri Synod) at 7:30 p. m., and at the Four-square Gospel Tabernacle, where a Watchnight service will begin at 9:30 p. m.

Special demonstrations will be witnessed at the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church tomorrow evening, when a candle lighting New Year's pageant titled "Following the Gospel Light Through the Centuries" will be accompanied by a sermon, "Following Christ Through the New Year," and by a duet by Leone and Emma Baxter. The musical program offered Christmas Sunday by the First Christian church will be repeated, by request, at that church tomorrow at 7 p. m. A quartet number and a flute solo by R. S. Briggs also are planned. Special music also has been arranged by the First Presbyterian church.

Morning Sermons

The sermons proper appear, from their titles, to be divided in mood between challenge, reflection and argument. In the first category seem to fall those announced by the Rev. C. F. Martin, pastor of the Orange Avenue Christian church, whose morning topic will be "Self-Consecration" by the Rev. O. Scott MacFarland, First Presbyterian, "Happy New Year," the Rev. H. W. Meyer, St. Peter Lutheran, "Anno Domini, 1933, A Year of Jubilee," the Rev. Ida L. Ewing, National Federation of Spiritual Church, No. 68, "The New Year in the Book of Life," and the Rev. Paul Andres, "Christian Spiritual Science church, "Forecasts for the Year 1933."

A weighing of progress during the past year is promised in sermons at those of the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, First Congregational church, "Lessons and Puzzles of the Year 1932," the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, First Christian church, "Looking Backward and Forward," the Rev. C. D. Hicks, Christian and Missionary Alliance, "The Passing and the Permanent," the Rev. T. W. Ringland, Church of the United Brethren in Christ, "Forgetting the Things That Are Behind," and the Rev. William Schmooch, Trinity Lutheran (Missouri Synod) "Christian Reminiscences."

More problematical in theme are the sermons prepared by the Rev. G. E. Vaddie, First Church of the Nazarene, "The Key to a Happy New Year," the Rev. C. W. Reinisch, Richard Avenue Methodist, "Living in a World of Cross Purposes," and the Rev. C. C. Houston, Church of Christ, "Choice, Wise and Unwise." Another program in this vein is suggested by the First Congregational League of Youth announcement of its evening topic, "Technocracy."

Annual election of officers by the St. Peter Lutheran church will fall on New Year's Day at 8 p. m., according to the Rev. H. W. Meyer, pastor.

Arrest Delhi Man On Driving Count

Wanted in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court on a reckless driving charge, Baldomero Lopez, 28, of Delhi, was arrested by Santa Ana police officers last night on a warrant.

Lopez was lodged in the county jail.

The complaining witness in the case is Dr. F. H. Johnson, of Delhi. Harry Fink, assistant chief of police, made the arrest.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG -- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON By Paul Mallon

SALES TAX Garner is playing poker with the sales tax.

That is the explanation behind the confused statements you have seen from the Democratic side recently. The Speaker wants to force the Republicans in the senate to take the rap for such an unpopular but apparently necessary way of balancing the budget.

The senate Republicans know Garner's plans and will not play. They do not intend to let their sales tax be appended to the beer bill. They would like to see the thing delayed until the Democrats come in. Then the Democrats would have to bear the political responsibility for it.

All this backstage buckpassing leaves the essential situation just where it was weeks ago. The sales tax will have to be passed before June 30 to balance the budget. It may pass the house at this session. It cannot get through the senate. The long-winded Huey Long alone could stop it even if the regular Republicans let it go. He would have able assistance in a filibuster from irregular Republicans who are constitutionally opposed to the tax even as a last resort.

That means the issue must wait until there is more time—in the Roosevelt special session after March 4.

Democratic Chairman Collier announced last Saturday the sales tax would not be passed. On Monday he announced it would be passed. Between times he heard from Garner.

His second statement was a trial balloon put out by Garner's inspiration in or to sound out the voters. The reaction was not so good. More promotion work will have to be done on it.

FORECASTING

You may be surprised by the absence of New Year's statements issued by statesmen this year.

The truth is that everyone who could not say something nice about the prospects decided to keep his mouth shut. Predictions have gone out of style anyway since so many public officials made fools of themselves in 1930. If issued now they would not bear as much weight as formerly.

The immediate prospects for January behind the scenes are said to be comparatively good. Much railroad refinancing is being cared for secretly now by the R.F.C. The experts expect an improvement in commodity prices.

BEER

Everyone manages somehow to keep a straight face in the senate beer farce.

Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee is not in on the deal for the delay. He has been pushing the bill vigorously. It will sleep longer when it gets to the finance committee. The fact that it is a dead giveaway of the secret program for a delay. Ordinarily bills are considered by only one committee.

Meanwhile Republican senators have received more private assurances from the White House that the measure will be vetoed. A certain Republican senator recently received direct word.

TECHNOCRACY

Government economists are purposely withholding comment on technocracy. They will say nothing until an official report is made by the technocrats. They have run themselves dizzy trying to keep up with the various explanations in recent statements and articles. They say it is impossible to reach any definite conclusions as to what it is all about.

Financial men here are really frightened at the way the idea has taken hold. It startled them to find out how ready the public was to grasp any idea that holds hope.

BANKS

A doublebarreled opposition is being secretly built up against the Glass bank bill. It is worrying the men in charge. They are trying to seek a compromise.

One barrel is readied by Senators Keane and McCall. They want to kick out the provision abolishing bank affiliates within five years and the restriction against national banks investing more than 10 per cent in the total issue of a stock. The other barrel is operated by the Blaine-Norbeck crowd. It is against the branch banking features. They probably will force some concessions. They will not get all they want.

NOTES

You can safely bet that the technocrats are not being paid for their magazine articles in ergs, but good old-fashioned American dollars....It helps the scientist unemployment situation to that extent....Agitation for guarantee of bank deposits will be started shortly in the senate by Senator Fletcher in charge....He will hold hearings as head of a banking and currency subcommittee....The majority of the committee is strongly opposed to the bill and it will not get far....Senator Copeland might consider the Berlin ambassadorship in return for resigning to let Al Smith get in the senate....That possibility is still cooking....Those on the inner fringe have been told he does not mean new Roosevelt has selected him as new secretary of state....They say that is the only prospect that would keep him here.

NEW YORK

By James McMullen

Utilities are in motion to start a new high powered publicity drive featuring the virtues of utility companies. Some of the boys have decided that it is getting them nowhere to be good and sit quiet and even the negative influence of powerful financial interests will not head off the flood of propaganda. Technocracy will be a special target in the early stages.

The industry is split into two factions on the merits of blowing the trumpet. Feeling behind the scene is fairly bitter. The "noes"—under the leadership of Gordon Carlisle of Consolidated Gas—won a notable victory at Atlantic City last summer but the minority has decided to get vocal on its own account. The old dog refuses new tricks.

A majority of the big companies are pretty well off financially but some of the little fellows are having tough sledding. There have been a number of quiet reorganizations in the last month that have been kept out of the public eye. Only two of the large outfits are likely to have to follow suit as things stand now.

MOTORS

The motor moguls are getting optimistic about their new models once more. Production in several large plants has been stepped up more than is generally realized. One of National Steel's plants is operating at full capacity on automobile orders. Another price war is in the offing.

WAGES

The extension of the present railway wage agreement for nine months means no gain for either side. It will neither haul the roads out of the hole nor satisfy the increasing demand from the brotherhood membership for restoration to the old scale. Labor strategy was to play for a delay in the hope that the railroad situation would either get much better or much worse in the period covered by the agreement.

Indications are that Senator Roy F. Lowell of San Francisco may be given the position as a second choice.

Governor Rolph's message to the legislature, which, for the first time in history, will be broadcast by radio Tuesday night, will predict that better times are ahead; explain what happened to the $31,000,000 surplus he inherited from Governor Young and why there will be a $11,000,000 deficit next June; recommend drastic economies and abolition of certain state functions; relief against deficiency judgments; a definite start on a coordinated state war program and legislation required by the Reconstruction Finance corporation by which the state may obtain a $2,000,000 loan to build the San Francisco bay bridge.

SHARE WORK

The share-work committee gained a notable victory recently in securing official government cooperation for its purpose. A letter framed by the Teagle committee was sent out to four thousand businesses of all sizes over the joint signatures of the secretaries of commerce and labor—inquiring whether the firm addressed had done anything about sharing work. The early replies are decidedly encouraging.

Three or four more large New York banks are expected to join in shortly. So far the obstacle has been the routine difficulties of detailed application—but the federal reserve bank of New York will cooperate by loaning an officer to the committee to prove to other bankers that it can be done.

Reports from Baltimore indicate that the local committee there is up on its toes. About 90 per cent of the firms approached have signified willingness to cooperate and the committee figures that 11,000 jobs have either been saved or created.

The corn product and syrup industry is the first to show 100 per cent participation in work sharing among all its units. That's because of the Standard Oil tie-in.

RENT

Count Felix von Luckner, famous German sea-raider, does not have to worry about his rent. He pays the city of New York one dollar a day wharfage fee and lives aboard his good ship MOPELLA. With telephones in the cabins and the subway two blocks away he does not suffer the hardships of the high seas.

COUNSEL

Insiders think Judge Seabury, rather than Steyer, may be chosen for the forthcoming senate investigation into the stock market. The committee is particularly interested in finding out what bankers have done. The entire banking system will probably be a target of investigation.

CABINET

Friends of the president-elect expect immediate activity on his cabinet following Governor Lehman's inauguration. Gov. Roosevelt seems determined to finish his duties to New York state before taking up federal affairs. Within the next fortnight he is expected to hold determining conferences regarding appointments for the new administration.

2 Autos Reported Stolen Last Night

Two automobiles were reported stolen here last night, neither of which has been recovered.

A car registered to Jerome D. Scottfield, 815 North Flower street, was reported stolen from a place where it was parked on Birch street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, and an automobile owned by Jerry Robinson, of 343 North Cypress street, Orange, was reported stolen from a place where he had parked it at the Orange County hospital.

FEWER DEATHS FROM AUTOS IN CITY IN 1932

Automobile accidents in Santa Ana in 1932, while numerous, have not proved of such a serious nature as a whole, an investigation of the records at the city police station today reveals.

There was a total of 160 automobiles crashed reported in Santa Ana in 1932, up to and including last night, but of this number there were only three persons killed.

This is lower than last year, when five persons met their deaths in crashes here, and is low in comparison with the remainder of the county, which so far shows an increase of 17 deaths over 1931.

There has been 68 persons killed in automobile wrecks, or as a result of them, in the county during the year, a new Orange county record. The old record, established in 1931, was 68.

JAIL. SHERIFF'S OFFICE IS BUSY DURING 1932

The year 1932 meant much to Sheriff Logan Jackson, his office, jail and other departments, according to the year's figures, scrutinized today.

During the year there was a total of 3072 persons booked on various charges at the Orange county jail.

There were 79 persons, convicted of felonies in the Orange county courts, transported to penal institutions by local officers; there were 84 insane persons taken to state institutions.

The sheriff's office, during the year, with a limited number of men, (which has been the complaint of the department throughout the year) completed a total number of 1020 investigations pointing out that his men do not work on shifts, but are on duty 24 hours of the day.

The sheriff's office, during 1932 arrested 533 persons, while the records show that during the year 3152 witnesses were subpoenaed for various courts throughout the county.

Recover 96 Autos Sheriff's officers reported they recovered 96 automobiles during the year, which had been reported stolen in various parts of the county.

In the sheriff's identification bureau, headed by Herman Zabel, finger prints of 1526 persons were recorded and 1050 persons were photographed, so that a record could be made of them.

Zabel reported that there was a total of 3400 identification photographs made in his department during the year and that there were 1847 made in his office for other departments in this county and outside the county.

A total of 21 persons was photographed for the United States government during the year, and there was a total of 196 photographs enlarged for use in courts when presenting evidence.

Files Built Up A total of 1344 cards describing stolen property was filed in the identification bureau during the year and 4400 cards filed relative to "men wanted" by various California departments. The sheriff's office has one of the most elaborate picture galleries in Southern California of criminals and men wanted, built up by Zabel and the past few years by his assistants, until it has reached a point where numerous men, booked on minor charges here, are "located" as wanted by other departments for crimes of a greater degree.

The identification bureau made 108 investigations for the criminal department of the sheriff's office, most of which were burglaries, 78 for other departments in the county, 32 for the county fruit patrol, a total of 218.

BUSINESS SLUMP IN JUSTICE COURT

The results of the depression throughout the country were seen in Judge Kenneth Morrison's justice court this year when "business" fell off considerably, due to the fact that fewer number of cases were filed this year.

There was a total of 921 civil cases filed during the year and a total number of 559 criminal cases heard by the judge, records in his office show.

The low number of civil cases probably was due, Justice Morrison said, to the increase of the fee for filing civil cases from $4 to $5 each, he pointing out that since August, 1931, when the new law went into effect a sharp decline was noted. The extra one dollar per case goes to the maintenance of the county law library.

Crosby referred to the advent of S. S. McClure, noted magazine publisher, in Orange county nearly two years ago and of his talks in many communities on a new form of government. He traced briefly an outline of Technocracy and then made the assertion:

"The people have found something and are not going to let go. The time has been reached when the price and profit plan of society no longer is feasible. Technocracy will bring a better-equilibrated state of society."

Frank D. Hevener, Laguna Beach banker, declared that a plan was being worked out that would take care of the economic and unemployment situation without recourse to Technocracy. He said the banking system is being revised so that a situation will exist where the depositor knows his money is safe. He predicted that such a change will come within two years.

Because defendant cities and water companies did not have data relative to water diversions prepared, the conference between James Irvine of the Irvine company and defendants in the water suit filed by him was not held yesterday. It was postponed until January 12.

The conference was held at San Bernardino and was aimed to bring the 15 defendant cities, water companies and associations together with Irvine in an attempt to compromise the suit recently filed by Irvine in federal court to adjudicate water rights along the Santa Ana river.

According to Howard Surr, one of the attorneys representing the defendants, the task of collecting data relative to diversions of water extending over a period of 20 years, was greater than had been anticipated.

Surr said there is a possibility that a compromise is possible because of the great expense involved in such a suit. He said that both sides would have to make concessions and intimated that the defendants were prepared to make a certain number of concessions, provided they would be met by Irvine.

Two youths were arrested at the Fox Broadway theater yesterday for breaking the back door at the place in an attempt to get into the show. They were taken to the police station, questioned and then released to appear again today. No formal complaint has been signed against them.

James W. Hicks, 19, and Mildred D. Kerns, 17, both of Orange, have applied for a marriage license in Riverside.

A number of bathroom fixtures and window shades were reported stolen from a vacant house located at 1137 South Flower street, some time during the past several days.

Report of the theft was made to the police last night by Isador Fields, local jeweler, who had charge of the house. The loss totaled $17.

Thieves broke into a box car on a siding near the Smart and Final store at 1204 East Fourth street, yesterday and stole seven cases of Quaker Oats, railroad detectives reported to police. A seal was broken on the car to allow entrance.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

The condition of your mind and spirit affects your body. Weariness, neurosis, and low blood pressure are often attendant upon unbalanced thinking or lack of courage. Denial of reality results from a depressed spirit.

Arrange for proper food, sleep and exercise. Do, above all, keep your motives at one with God's loving will and trust Him increasingly.

As you grow into greater faith in His abiding care, you will attain strength of body, clarity of mind and calmness of spirit.

HENDRICKS—December 31, 1932, in Eldorado, Mrs. Martha A. Hendricks, age 54 years. TEACHER FROM ST. PAUL MAY NOT SURVIVE

Sister Anna Marie, a professor at St. Joseph's school, St. Paul, and her cousin, Bernard Rath, 24, of Los Angeles, were seriously injured about 9:15 o'clock last night when an automobile in which they were riding, leaped over a curb and plunged down a canyon on the ocean side of Coast boulevard at Three Arch bay, four miles south of Laguna Beach.

When examined at the Laguna Beach hospital, where she first was taken in an ambulance, Dr. B. A. Mason found that Sister Anna Marie was paralyzed from the waist down. She also received painful injuries to the head. Rath had several ribs broken and a cut on the left wrist. Later the sister was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where a consultation with this view.

Rath was taken to St. Vincent's hospital, Los Angeles. Mrs. Catherine J. Rath, mother of Bernard, who was driving the car, received a number of painful body bruises. Sister St. Mark, companion of Sister Anna Marie, escaped miraculously from severe injury.

The sisters, who are members of the Order of St. Joseph, had attended a convention of the Association of Teachers of Speech in Los Angeles and were returning from a visit to San Diego. According to Mrs. Rath, she was travelling about 25 miles an hour when the car, travelling north, went slightly off the new highway paving and struck a pile of sand, causing it to shoot diagonally across the highway, leaping the cement curb, which is about a foot high and plunging into a steep decline. Both Mrs. Rath and her son say the car overturned three times. It stopped a distance of 600 feet from the highway and about 300 feet below the level of the road. Passengers were rescued with difficulty.

While they were at the Laguna Beach hospital and their condition seemed precarious, the last rites of the Catholic church were administered to Sister Anna Marie and later to Sister St. Mark. Sister Anna Marie was interred at St. Catherine's Catholic church, Laguna Beach.

According to Mrs. Rath, Sister Anna Marie is one of the best known teachers of speech in educational circles.

LICENSES FOR WEDDINGS DROP IN LEAP YEAR

Opportunities offered by Leap Year and its traditional privilege extended women to "get their man" failed to overcome the depression of 1932 and, according to statistics released this morning by the County Clerk J. M. Slightlyoff, the marriage market was "slightly off" this year. The number of licenses issued this year was 3591 as compared to 1931 total of 3750.

To the boys who prove things by statistics and are taking every opportunity to prove that "things are getting better" there is comfort in the record of the last five months. Licenses issued during four of the last five months of the year exceeded those of corresponding months in 1931.

June, of course, was the best month of the year with 399 licenses being issued. In 1931, however there were 411 licenses issued for the same month. This year is the first in many years that licenses issued during the "month of brides" fell below 400.

August was a good month with 370 licenses issued as compared to the 324 issued for August 1931. In September there were 329 licenses issued showing a gain over the 315 issued for the same month in 1931. November this year also was ahead of the same month in 1931 with 268 licenses issued as against the 261 for November 1931. The present month went out in a blaze of glory with 317 licenses issued. Last year the end of December saw 289 licenses issued.

Comparison by months for the two years follows:

	1931	1932
January	281	253
February	283	236
March	271	245
April	318	265
May	281	251
June	411	399
July	376	324
August	324	370
September	315	329
October	339	324
November	261	268
December	289	317

J. THIESSENHUSEN FUNERAL TUESDAY

John Thiessehusen, 61, died today at the family residence, 431 West First street, after an illness of about two weeks. He had been a resident of Santa Ana for the past 12 years. For several years he was superintendent of sales for the May-Bemis Implement company of Santa Ana.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Abba Thiessehusen; a sister, Miss Minnie Thiessehusen, both of Appleton, Wis.; and a brother, Otto Thiessehusen, who will be held from the Winbiger funeral home, 609 North Main street, Tuesday, January 3, at 2 p. m., with the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiating.

He was a prominent member of the Santa Ana Odd Fellows Lodge No. 236, which order will have charge of the interment in Fairhaven cemetery.

Anna Hunn, 42, of Santa Ana, and Dee Lense, 52, of Long Beach, have made application for a marriage license in Riverside county.

DISABLED VETS ENJOY DANCE, VAUDEVILLE

More than 100 members of the Jack Fisher chapter and auxiliary, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, enjoyed a vaudeville program followed by dancing until a late hour at the regular meeting Wednesday evening at the Legion hall.

Several groups of popular numbers were rendered in a capable manner by the Golden State orchestra under the able leadership of Polk Burke, late of the Brunswick recording orchestra.

Keneth Vinson, well known vaudeville performer, appeared in solos to the accompaniment of the guitar while Miss Mary Gardner and brother delighted the assemblage with tap dancing numbers. Wally Greig, in the role of master of ceremonies, scored numerous hits with his witicism in introducing the numbers. Following this program dancing was enjoyed to the music of Polk Burke's orchestra.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Unemployed Association of Santa Ana and Comrade Martin L. E. McCall who were responsible for this entertainment.

The business session preceding was featured by talks by Glen A. Young, of Tustin, American Legion county council commander, and N. E. Meister, commander of the Ernest L. Keller post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Both speakers emphasized the cooperation that exists amongst all veteran organizations at this time and pledged continued support to the D. A. V. organization in Orange county.

Van Leonard Brown, chairman of the national legislation committee, reported in detail the progress made by the joint committee adopted to study veterans legislation and the continued propaganda being used by the National Economy league. It was brought out that the league is working through the large corporations soliciting membership from the employees by means of a letter written by the various heads of these companies. Brown warned all veterans to assist in increasing the membership at this particular time.

A detailed report of the Christmas activities brought out that every disabled veteran and his family were taken care of to the best knowledge of the committee working for the past month.

Mrs. Rose Edwards, past state and local commander of the D. A. V. auxiliary, was especially complimented on her accomplishments this year on welfare as were Commander Earl B. Hawks, of the chapter and Mrs. Hazel Chittenden, commander of the auxiliary, for their efforts in connection with the Christmas tree party.

CHESS TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD AT Y

Plans for a chess tournament were adopted by the Y. M. C. A. Chess and checker club at its meeting Thursday night.

Beginning next Thursday evening, there will be a "round robin" tournament for three weeks, to let the players adjusted and to arrange classifications. On January 24, the club will be honored by a visit from Walter Hegeman, a member of the Manhattan Chess club of New York, and who is familiar with the playing style of Champion Frank Marshall and other notables. Hegeman will play demonstration games, and will also play simultaneous games with all comers during the evening.

With this event the regular tournament schedule will be launched, which is expected to run through several weeks of interesting contests. Entries for the tournament should be made by January 12. These entries should be made at the Thursday evening sessions at the club, but may be made at other times at the Y. M. C. A. office.

All chess players who are interested are invited to participate in the Thursday evening play each week, as well as in the tournament play. The club is organized for the purpose of promoting interest in chess and checkers. No dues are charged, and no expense is involved in its operation.

SCORE HIGH PERCENTAGE OF CRIMINAL CASE CONVICTIONS IN COUNTY COURT IN 1932

Of the 209 criminal cases that reached superior court during the year 1931, the district attorney's office secured convictions or pleas of guilty in 154 of them, or slightly more than 73 per cent, according to records of County Clerk J. M. Backs.

With 154 convictions for criminal offenses including high misdemeanors, there were 123 applications for probation filed, with the court granting 83 petitions and denying 40. The majority of the cases in which probation was granted included jail terms of from 60 days to two years as part of the probation.

The 209 cases in criminal court during the past year included appeals that are now pending and habeas corpus proceedings. Out of the total number of cases that reached the courts there were 11 acquittals and 10 cases dismissed on request of the district attorney's office in furtherance of justice. There are 25 cases pending and will be carried over into the new year for completion.

Burglary, Checks Lead

Analysis of the cases prosecuted by the district attorney's office during the past year reveals that burglary was the principal offense, with check charges, including forgery, issuing fictitious checks, insufficient fund checks and other crimes listed as "paper hanging," taking second place. Grand theft and robbery took third and fourth places respectively in the category of crime.

There was a total of 21 cases directly involving liquor prosecuted. Of this number there were 14 prosecutions for driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor, and seven prosecutions for owning and operating stills. There were 11 prosecutions for violation of the narcotics law. These violations included a group of prosecutions of Mexicans accused of having in their possession Indian hemp or marijuana.

Following is a list of criminal cases prosecuted in superior court during the year, the offenses and the number of each: Burglary, 48; Checks, 32; Grand Theft, 25; Robbery, 13; Non-support, 14; Driving Drunk, 14; Manslaughter, 8; Rape, 8; Contributing to the delinquency of minors, 5; Narcotics, 11; Possession of a deadly weapon, 2; Bigamy, 2; Murder, 2; and Miscellaneous, 17.

In a peremptory writ issued yesterday the Santa Ana board of education was directed to return Misses Lois Gould and Bertha Briney to work teaching immediately or show cause before Presiding Judge G. J. Scovel at 2 p. m. January 13.

The writ was issued after the signed yesterday after receipt of the signed findings from Judge Edwin Owen of Kern county who whom the Misses Gould and Briney brought action against the school board after having been dropped from the faculty. The teachers were dropped at the end of the school year 1931-32 when the board's economy program became effective.

Both teachers sued for their positions on the grounds that they had established their status as permanent teachers and could not be dismissed without cause. The cases were taken into court on alternative writs of mandate and Judge Owen in his verbal decision held that both teachers were permanent and ordered them returned to work.

Findings were ordered prepared and sent to Judge Owen for his signature. The findings were prepared but not returned until Judge Owen was served on the night of December 24 with an alternative writ of mandate from the fourth district court of appeals ordering the findings signed or Judge Owens' appearance before that tribunal, January 10, to show cause why he had failed to sign them. The findings were signed and returned Wednesday night.

Milburn Harvey, of the law firm of Harvey and Harvey, representing the board of education, said the board will not return the two teachers to duty as it is planning to appeal from the decision of Judge Owen.

When a hobo attempted to hold up Charles Clemens, porter at the Martin's Barber shop, 315 North Broadway street, early last night, Clemens was not in the least disturbed.

Instead, he picked up a steel shoe rest and made a pass at the would-be bandit. The hobo turned and ran.

Police were notified.

FORMER S. A. PASTOR LEADS WORK AT CAMP

The Rev. Thomas E. Stevenson, better known as "Parson Tom," and well known in Santa Ana where he was pastor of the First Presbyterian church for some time during the war, is in Boulder City, Nevada, leading a group of men working "to beat the devil."

The Rev. Mr. Stevenson is a brother of the Rev. J. A. Stevenson, for many years pastor of the First Presbyterian church here.

During the war while his brother was engaged in war work, "Parson Tom" served as substitute pastor in the local church. During his work here he made many friends.

Boulder City, in Nevada, the town that sprung up around the site of the Hoover Dam when the contract was let to Six Companies, Inc., offered a community where every one of the 3000 men living there was employed with payday coming regularly when government checks were handed out.

Realizing the need for recreation, the Six Companies maintain a recreation hall in charge of Frank Moran, an ex-boxer who understands men and is understood by men. A company store sells necessities to those workers who carry their own homes and every effort is made to keep the men happy and comfortable.

With a community such as this the possibility of vice creeping in was recognized. And that is where "Parson Tom" came into the picture. The Federal Council of Churches and the Home Missions Council co-operated and employed a pastor jointly and the program of the churches was arranged co-operatively. "Parson Tom" Stevenson was selected for the task.

Literary Digest, in the current issue tells of "Parson Tom's" work and the success he has had in keeping vice out of Boulder City. By contrast it points to Las Vegas, 20 miles away, where vice is said to be rampant with gambling halls and a segregated district operating openly.

Speaking of "Parson Tom" the Literary Digest says: "He is a good fit. Tall, well-built, experienced, with a warm hand-lamp, a ready smile, and plenty of energy, he makes his way quickly with the men. He began work October 1, 1931, and thus far has held his services in one of the mess halls.

"He now has a Sunday-school with over one hundred in attendance in temporary day-school cottages. A better place is to be provided soon, through the joint contributions of the seven communities which are underwriting the local budget.

"Even after the dam shall have been completed and the workers dispersed, it is expected that Boulder City will remain as headquarters for the administration of the dam and an important resort center, with a permanent federated Protestant Church."

Plans for extending the sphere of operations of the United States Chamber of Commerce in the western states were made at a meeting of key secretaries of chambers of commerce in the Southland which was held yesterday in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce offices and which was attended by the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

Raymer was appointed representative of Orange county to have charge of all matters in the county which come under the jurisdiction of the chamber of commerce. The movement has been started to effect a closer tie-in between local chambers of commerce and the national organization.

Monday evening's service at 7:30 will present Dr. Ray C. Harker, pastor of the Methodist, White Temple of Anaheim, as the preacher. Dr. Harker was assigned to the Anaheim pulpit by the last conference of the Methodist church, and he has not been heard by a Santa Ana audience. Music at Monday's service will be provided by members of the choir of the Spurgeon church.

All people are invited and urged by the ministers to attend the service on Monday evening, and on the other evenings of the week. The service will last for one hour and will be of interest to any person who seeks to find in the Christmas message a solution for the problems of life, the Rev. Mr. Mats said.

Dance the Old Year Out at Veterans of Foreign Wars Benefit Dance, Rainbow Ball Room, 3rd Street between Spurgeon and French Streets, Gilbert's Orchestra, 35c per Couple. Help Unemployed Veterans.—Adv.

It is our wish that all our patrons and friends may have an unending succession of happy days in this New Year. May they have an unending succession of Happy New Years.

Schools to Re-open Next Tuesday

Schools that have been closed for the past two weeks during the Christmas holiday will reopen Tuesday bringing back the 6800 students and approximately 300 teachers for completion of the first semester. The semester ends January 30. Closing of the Christmas holiday marks the last vacation in the schools until April 10, when the spring vacation starts.

SCOUTS RETURN AFTER SOJOURN IN MOUNTAINS

A group of 25 Santa Ana Boy Scouts were home today from the annual winter camping session at Camp Rokill, the Orange county Boy Scout camp in the San Bernardino mountains, after having returned late yesterday.

According to Scout Executive Harrison E. White, all of the Scouts had a wonderful time in the mountains which were blanketed with snow. No accidents marred the trip, although the truck which carried the Scouts to camp was stuck in snow drifts twice on the way to camp and returned.

Tobogganing, skating and other forms of winter sports were enjoyed by the Scouts at camp after they had packed into camp for four miles, the truck having been unable to drive to the camp because of the snow. Jenks Jake was frozen over with three inches of ice and Wednesday a hard snow storm struck the camp.

A large group of Anaheim Scouts spent some time at the camp during the week, making a total of 47 in the camping party.

Late News From Orange County Communities

Placentia Association Pay Refund Of $102,000

MAIL CHECKS TO CITRUS FRUIT GROWERS SOON

PLACENTIA, Dec. 31.—Growers of the Placentia Mutual Orange association are to receive a refund of $102,000, according to an announcement made today by Harry O. Easton, manager, and the board of directors of the company. The payment will be made next week.

This refund is granted because of a number of conditions, according to Easton, principally because of purchase of supplies at reduced costs, and the excellent condition of the market at the beginning of the year.

The association shipped approximately 1500 cars of fruit during the past season.

The annual meeting of the association is scheduled for January 10.

ANNUAL PROGRAM GIVEN IN CHURCH

FULLERTON, Dec. 31.—The conclusion of St. Andrew's Episcopal church Christmas celebration was held Thursday at the new guild hall, where the Sunday school gave its annual program. It was conducted by Dorothy Dunphy and by the superintendent, Harry Littlefield.

Following brief talks by the rector, the Rev. Charles E. Maltas, and by the Sunday school superintendent, the students presented their program. It included a ballet dance by Beverly Young; a song, "Christmas Trees," by Patsy Shanks; a French doll dance, Lillian Funnell, Lorraine Shanks, Frances Conley and Dorothy Day; a waltz song by Dorothy Day, and a reading, "Yes, Santa Was Good to Me."

A reading, "Bobby's Present," by Jack McCracken; a harmonica duet by Glen Elmonet and David Day; a piano solo by Vivian Dunphy; a harmonica duet by David Day and Mr. Littlefield; a trumpet duet by Betty and Marjorie Yeats; a song, "The Night Before Christmas," by Virginia Foster; and the "Ranger Boys," Audrey Watkins, Homer Humphreys, Bobby Stevenson, Roy Funnell and David Day, who staged "The Coming of the Wise Men." At the close the audience sang Christmas carols and Santa Claus distributed presents.

BIRTHDAY DINNER FOR DORCAS GROUP

PLACENTIA, Dec. 31.—Arrangements were made to hold a birthday dinner January 26 at 6:30 p.m. by members of Calvary church Dorcas society at the regular meeting yesterday noon. A table will be set for each month during the year, where persons having birthdays on that month will be seated.

Other business at the meeting, where Mrs. Wayne Loomis presided, in the absence of Mrs. S. L. Marshburn, included appointing Mrs. B. J. Rouse, Mrs. C. L. Green and Mrs. W. S. Ingram as a nominating committee to present names for officers for the next year.

Mrs. Grover Murdock reported that the Dorcas society sent more than 500 Christmas cards to the county jail, the hospital, health camp and to camps for transients. Mrs. George Hays reported the church had sent 11 large boxes at Christmas, containing food for needy families besides contributing to the community welfare fund. Mrs. W. B. Howard reported more than $18.50 had been earned by women giving economy dinners for the society.

Further than that Mona did not go in her thoughts. It was true, however, that Townsend was charming, wealthy, eligible, attractive and attracted!

Mona's method is such instances was to reconnoiter, consider and capitulate later—if at all. And then it would be merely to the extent of the most conservative of invitations.

Though Mona had been with the firm for two years she had not laid eyes on Barry until a month ago. It was rumored that he had displaced his uncle who held the family purse strings until Barry became 30. He had dashed away to Mexico—or was it China?—soon after finishing college.

Here he was back again, confident, gay and the despair of that portion of the debutante list favoring older men. Twenty-eight seemed to many of them the beginning of the senile stage in manhood.

"As I live!" Barry Townsend announced in well simulated surprise. "Portrait of a heart-throb! Lady MMM. It is a portrait. No, she starts, she moves—"

Mona said dryly, "Burne-Jones. Botticelli. I've heard all that." The young man dropped his bantering. "Miss Moran, I've braved the elements and the hour bravely to ask old Stroud for an advance. Actually it was to ask you to dine with me. Any evening, any hour, any time. Only the sooner, why the quicker."

His eyes followed the movements of her hands about her desk straightening a few papers. "I've been for heaven knows how long where there wasn't a soul to talk to except my partner. Of course there were a few other white men but they worked for me—when they weren't cheating me—or trying to—they yessed me. No white women at all."

"Think of it! Never visiting at a table with a woman. Never talking to one or dancing with one." His smile grew boyish. "Have pity on me! Mine with me somewhere and let's go places and do things!"

The sincerity in his voice touched Mona but she met it flippantly. "My mother told me never to trust men who asked me out to dine."

"Does that mean I am never to see you?"

Mona raised demure eyes. "You are getting quite an eyeful now."

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

Peter Ashley, by Dubose Heyward, published by Farrar and Rinehart.

"Peter Ashley" is a novel of the old South. The setting is Charleston in 1863. The people of the story are Charleston's aristocracy, the finest that has ever existed in this country. The story reveals the code of the gentlemen of the day and place, the amusements, society, and history for the period of the story covers the beginning of the war of secession and climaxes with the battle of Fort Sumter and the fall of that fort. In the social life of Charleston, there was a polish and decorum which in these days of casual intercourse one would hardly believe had existed on this continent.

There are several excellently drawn episodes, one of a horse-race, another of a duel, and another of Colonel Wigfall's voluntary acceptance of the surrender of Sumter. It is human, amusing and broadens the understanding to read of the hero of the story, Peter Ashley, leaving the horse race, completely forgetful of the girl he had escorted there and had asked to take home, leaving her sitting there, because he is so absorbed in the story of the horse-race he is going to write for his paper that he absolutely forgets her. Very young girls probably could not possibly understand that such a thing might really ever happen.

Into the mouth of Pierre Charbon, Peter's uncle, the author puts an interesting statement when he says: "Youth must run with the pack or die of loneliness." Again Charbon thinks to himself that Damaris, who marries Peter, had quickly divined that after a war they never come back. "If it pleased God to be very lenient there might be a Peter who would return, who would come back to her arms with undiminished devotion. But he would never be this boy, sitting there beside her, with the story of youth upon him, and his faith like a bright blade in his hands."

It is a chronicle of a period and society in our country which should be preserved, and it will prove fortunate that it can be preserved through as fine a piece of writing as this of Dubose Heyward, the author of "Mamie's Daughters."

Blessed Spinoza by Lewis Brown, published by the MacMillan Company.

The philosophy of Spinoza, which was his life's work, is appealing strongly to people at the present time. It was in art the product of an age not dissimilar to ours. Spinoza was a great scholar. Excommunicated and hounded during his lifetime, so poor that his poverty undoubtedly shortened his life, Spinoza nevertheless found a way to happiness even in his abject, frugal life. Spinoza was rare among great men in that his personality brought him fame long before his ideas had been published.

It is a bit unfortunate that in writing the book, the author devoted so many pages to the early part of Spinoza's life, for there is little authentic material on his early life, except as the author assumes that it was typical of the schooling of a Jewish boy of that period. Spinoza was not typical in many respects, however, for he had poor health all his life, and as a result of his physical weakness, inherited from his mother, he became a bookworm. The latter portion of the book is fascinating, and it would be unfortunate indeed if any turned aside before reading it.

When Spinoza's father died, his half sister Rebecca tried by every means to deprive Baruch Spinoza of his share of the inheritance. Spinoza contested her right and when he finally won, he returned the money, asking only as his share a good bed and the coverings to go with it. But an excommunicated Jew, however, learned, had difficulty earning a living. He learned to grind lenses. "It was tragic," says Mr. Brown, "that Spinoza should have chosen such a way of earning his livelihood. Predisposed as he was to tuberculosis, he was not fitted for lens grinding. It was, unfortunately, what with the pitch that was used to fasten the glass to the bench, and the rosin, tripoli, vitriol and vinegar used as abrasives. And it kept him closely confined, his lungs breathing air filled with glass-dust. For hours on end, he had to stand there stooped over the work bench, his hands moving the tool round and round over the lens."

True to his rearing, Spinoza could see only one worthy end for all human searching, and that end the attainment of human happiness. He went out into the world, "alone and penniless, determined to find a house where he could be truly happy. . . . The young Jew's plight is readily comprehensible—more so, perhaps, than his eventual victory. He was not a seer for him to resign himself to indifference. . . . After long pondering he did discover an objective which promised to provide him with enduring happiness. He saw that 'the greatest good is that a man, together with other men if possible, should arrive at a knowledge of the union existing between the (individual) mind and the whole of Nature.'"

Some will be surprised to find their own beliefs, which they little suspected, came by one route and another from Spinoza, were actually promulgated by the lovable God-intoxicated and learned man.

Death in the Afternoon by Ernest Hemingway, published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

Taste is pitted against taste in the opinion of this book on bullfighting. Mr. Hemingway himself in the beginning quite sarcastically of those who are prejudiced against bull fights, and attend their first one with a fixed idea of the proper reaction, and remain only long enough to establish their legitimate right to the proper reaction, leaving before their preconceived notions can be assailed. The formal bullfight is a tragedy, Mr. Hemingway tells us, not a sport, and the bull is certain to be killed. It is one hundred to one against the matador de toros, or formally invested bullfighter, being killed unless he is inexperienced, ignorant, out of training or too old and heavy on his feet. But the matador, if he knows his profession, can increase the amount of the danger of death that he runs exactly as he wishes. He should, however, increase this danger, within the rules provided for his protection.

The book is an encyclopedia on bullfighting. Mr. Hemingway spent five years preparing for and writing this book, attending more than three hundred bull fights. There is a glossary of terms and many illustrations. The book is authoritative. At the same time Mr. Hemingway conveys to the reader a full awareness that bullfighting is an art.

The book is not a "nice" book. The subject matter does not lend itself to delicate treatment. Some people will be displeased by the book and therefore should stay away from it.

Death does not fascinate the Anglo-Saxon, says Mr. Hemingway, as it fascinates the Spaniard. In America the fascination is in victory. The American replaces, "the avoidance of death by the avoidance of defeat." The book is a competent guidebook to the bullfight. The author in careful and explicit detail tells about the seating arrangements at the arena, advises which seat is best for witnessing one's first fight which for the keenest experience of the spectacle, and which for the most comprehensive impression. In detail he explains the ritual of the bullfight, the selection of the bulls earlier in the day, the opening of the actual fight, etc.

The author resorts to imaginary conversation to liven up the book. Some of his discourses, carried on with an old lady, in the style of the dialogues of Plato, are imaginary conversations, others are like the dialogues of Pilgrim's Progress. Many of these conversations are highly humorous because of the incongruity of the style or interlocutor and the subject matter.

Columbia has renewed its contract with Buck Jones for eight more pictures.

"Remote Control" Opens Next Week At Padua Hills

A new type of mystery play, "Remote Control," has been selected as the January production of the Claremont Community Players, and the cast announced by the director, Mary Blaisdell Harris. Appearing in the leading role, that of Walter Brokenchild, the announcer is Stanley Larson, of Upland, and the cast announced by the director, Mary Blaisdell Harris. "Remote Control" is a novel play which is certain to arouse much interest. From first to last the play teems with action and excitement. The scene is laid in a radio broadcasting station, where fun and frolic, the robbery, and finally murder, occur. The Ghost Gang is suspected, but no one knows the leader or where the gang will strike next. Mystery, thrills, chills and drama—all these abound in "Remote Control."

The play, the fourth of the season, will be presented at the Little Theater in Padua Hills for six performances, the first week in January, opening Tuesday evening, January 3, and closing Saturday, January 7, with a matinee on the last day.

SATIRE ON GRETA GARBO IN MAKING

J. I. Schnitzer will produce "Greta the Great" for Radio, a story by Lew Hefetz and Neil Brandt, who recently sold "International House" to Paramount.

Yarn is a satire on the silence of Greta Garbo. It deals with a waitress who palms herself off as the picture star.

Cooper Balks At Part Offered Him

Gary Cooper is balking at going into B. P. Schulberg's "Pick Up" at Paramount, claiming that his part in the Vena Delmar yarn is not strong enough. He is scheduled to share the top with Sylvia Sydney.

Possibilities are that changes in the script will be made to suit Cooper so that the film can start within two weeks.

Poets of Southern California

By MISS BUELAH MAY

HELEN HOYT

Born in Connecticut, Helen Hoyt (Mrs. Jack Lyman) came west in childhood and in 1912 she was doing office work in Chicago.

In 1915-16 she was associate editor of POETRY. Stricken with wanderlust, she came to California where she married and has lived ever since. The following poem is from a series of poems on FIRE which will shortly appear in book form.

Pine Cones Burning

Now at the edge of the fire
The burning pine-cones, rose-shaped,
Turn into glowing roses;
Open their crimson, fire-flushed
Petals of dusky velvet,
Fervid with trail breath
Of unsubstantial life.

Rooted in fire their moment of acid bloom,
Feeding on fire; buds that perish
In the one exquisite unfolding;
That live in the one dying.

Tremulously, petal by petal they flower—
Cone by cone—into the perfect rose—

The instant, uttermost shape of throbbing fire—then,
Petal by petal, rose by rose,
Pales into dusky red, cools back
Into shape of pine-cone; darkness and die

Shrivelling away
In fiery consumption.
—California Poets,
Henry Harrison.

PREVIEW AND WEST COAST TO MIDNITE SHOW STAGE SPECIAL ON AT WALKERS SHOW TONIGHT

The days of '49 are brought to realism in Monarch's Epic of the West, starring Tom Tyler—"The Forty-Niners." This film, showing at Walker's State theater tonight, has brought an extra quota of fans to delight in the costumes, manners and costumes of another day.

Although it has all the thrills and excitement of the popular Western drama of today—it has the added lure of historical truth in detail and incident. It was not, therefore, surprising that many stay-at-homes turned out to see a film which makes the past relive.

The film was taken in the gold fields of California where the pioneers staged just such courageous fights for existence as appear in "The Forty-Niners."

In addition to "The Forty-Niners," a special studio preview is being shown this evening at the regular shows, and again at a Midnite matinee, at 11:00 p. m.

EDW. ROBINSON COMING SUNDAY IN BIG PICTURE

Out of the thundering calvaude of history, come to the screen one of the most astonishing pictures of the new year, "Silver Dollar," which opens a four day run at the Fox Broadway theater Sunday.

Declared by critics over the entire country as one of the leading film productions in the history of motion pictures, the picture is headed by Edward G. Robinson, the "Little Caesar," and a long list of film notables.

It is the story of the rise of Denver, Colo., the finding of silver in Colorado and how the mighty man of silver, Haw Mar-tin, allows his vast domains to tumble when gold is made the standard of these United States.

A gripping drama, drenched in the blood of pioneers, with the tell-tale marks of civilization's demand and the romance of the early eighties, the picture will be remembered as one of the best. Liberty Magazine, in a review gave it its highest reward—four stars. New York critics declare it is the greatest picture since "Cimarron."

The "Little Caesar" of yesterday has risen to new heights in this new picture and a million fans have been added to his admirers. Bebe Daniels, Aline Mahon, Jobyna Howland, Robert Warwick, and some other twenty well known names dot the big cast in the production.

As a part of the program at the Broadway with "Silver Dollar" is the Mills Brothers, in a sketch called "Diana" and Laurel and Hardy in "The First Mistake."

"Butterfly" Ends Showing Tonight

Final showing of the great play "Madame Butterfly" starring Sylvia Sydney in what critics declare to be her best work so far, and "Little Orphan Annie," with May Robson and Mitz Green, the other feature which has been showing here since Thursday, will be made at the Fox Broadway theater tonight.

Due to the fact that the mid-night show at the Broadway is staged at 11:45 p. m., and the fact that a long program ensues from the two pictures, "Little Orphan Annie" will be shown only one time tonight, at about 8:30 p. m., it was announced.

Business casualties in Germany are showing a decided decrease.

"SILVER DOLLAR" STAR

Edward G. Robinson who appears as the lead in "Silver Dollar," the four star picture which comes to the Fox Broadway theater starting Sunday. The picture is declared to be the one outstanding picture of its kind made this year and is a promise of what 1933 pictures will be like.

AT WEST COAST

Jack Oakie, who is seen in a different type role for him, now showing at the Fox West Coast theater. The picture is "Uptown New York," and Oakie has the part of a lover who succeeds because he never says "die."

"ANIMAL KINGDOM" COMING NEXT WEEK

Ann Harding and Leslie Howard in "The Animal Kingdom," the big picture which opened Radio City in New York Thursday night, will be shown at the Fox West Coast theater starting next Sunday. It was announced today by Eddie Graham, manager.

The picture will also announce the adoption of a new policy for the theater, details of which are to be announced at a later date, Graham said.

BIG NEW YEAR SHOW AT FOX B'WAY TONIGHT

Plans for a gala celebration of the coming of the New Year at the Fox Broadway theater tonight, were complete this afternoon, and Manager Les Fountain is highly pleased with the outlook of what he considers the best mid-night show ever to be staged in Santa Ana.

With a stage attraction of 16 people in a series of vaudeville acts which are to be presented as one complete show, rather than acts, and with a new picture, declared ideal for the type of show being given, Santa Ana patrons of the Fox Broadway theater can expect a gala night.

Souvenirs for all who attend, together with noise makers, and toys to celebrate the coming of the New Year will be provided at the door.

Seats are now on sale and have been for some time. Advance sale of seats indicate that there will be a big house when the curtain rises, but tickets will still be available in the lobby all day today and throughout the evening.

The picture to be shown is "They Just Had to Get Married," latest starring vehicle for Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville, probably the greatest comedy team in the show business. Critics declare the comedy to be the most progressive hit the screen has scored in many months.

'HIS WOMAN' OPENS SUNDAY AT WALKERS

Two popular photoplay "caves" are united for the first time in a talking picture at the Walker's State Sunday when the Paramount love drama, "His Woman," brings Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper onto the co-starring horizon.

The story, based on a novel, "The Sentimentalist," by Dale Collins, offers Cooper exactly the type of role in which he excels, that of a lanky, young leader considerably at sea on how to handle women, but lacking not a second of action when a rough-and-tumble tussle will save any girl from attentions she considers unfattering at the hands of the other fellow.

Miss Colbert's work will be watched closely, her part as an abandoned girl of the waterfront being a direct antithesis of the smartly gowned portrayals in which she has scored her greatest successes.

Birthday Party Held Following Evening Broadcast

Following their Thursday evening broadcast over radio station KRIS, Orange County Killwillies took part in a surprise party given by Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Babcock in their home, 201 North Main street. The affair was in celebration of the birthday anniversary of L. R. Wilson, known as "Goody" to radio fans.

A Christmas tree, holly and other decorations were used in carrying out a holiday theme. After an informal social time, refreshments were served at gayly decked card tables.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wilson of Tustin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beaudette, Costa Mesa; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Fuller, Garden Grove; Miss Peggy Tadlock, Tustin, and Mr. and Mrs. Babcock.

The Killwillies are to be in Garden Grove tonight presenting a program in Legion hall for the benefit of the Unemployed association.

George Calhoun Hosts At Pretty Dinner Function

A dinner party at which evidences of thoughtful preparation on the part of the hosts were especially apparent, was that tendered last evening by Mr. and Mrs. George Calhoun at their residence, 819 North Olive street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mills and children, Martha May and Charles. The spirit attending Christmas was felt within the home immediately as guests entered to discover a lovely tree erected in a setting cheery with Yuletide decorations.

At the close of a delicious three course dinner the visiting young people joined with the son and daughter of their hosts, George Calhoun Jr. and Marjorie Calhoun, in an hour of so of Christmas games, while their parents visited between radio programs. Sharing the latter entertainment was Mrs. Calhoun's mother, Mrs. Bowers.

Announcements

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

John Prepares The Way
For Jesus

Text: Mark 1:1-11

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for January 1.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The lessons of the first quarter of the new year deal with the Gospel of the Son of God, with lesson materials taken from the Gospel of Mark, which is the simplest and, as many scholars believe, the earliest form of the Gospel record.

The Gospel of Mark plunges immediately into the story of the life and ministry of Jesus without any preliminary history as in the Gospel of Matthew and Luke, and without any philosophical prologue as in the Gospel of John. The Gospel of Mark is characterized throughout by the simplicity and directness of the record. There are no unnecessary words; there is little reference to detail or event, except as these have to do with the main fact of the ministry of Jesus and the Gospel that he brought to men.

To have plunged into the description of the ministry of Jesus without any reference to the preparatory work of John would, however, have been almost impossible. John's work of preparation was so directly associated with the coming of Jesus, and the early disciples who gathered around the Master were so under the influence of John, that the work of preparation was in reality a part of the ministry itself.

There is no nobler word concerning John the Baptist than the word of Jesus himself. When he described John as the greatest of those who had been born of woman, he spoke in a worthy way of one of the truly great figures of history.

But it must not be forgotten that he spoke of John, none the less, as upon a plane of privilege and achievement less than that of the Kingdom of Heaven which he opened up to the lowliest and humblest of men.

It is difficult for most people to realize that John the Baptist was a young man, only a few months older than Jesus himself, and probably almost two years younger at the time of his martyrdom than Jesus was when he finished his ministry on the cross. Perhaps artists are partially responsible for the fact that we think of the Prophets as old men with long and flowing beards, and we put John the Baptist in the same group, whereas the fact is that the likelihood is that most of the Prophets were young men with the flaming zeal of youth who encountered persecutions that cut off their lives before they had attained a great age, or even middle age.

In any case we are sure about the age of John the Baptist. He could have been little more than 30 when he began his definite work of ministry, and the ministry that was so effective in preparing the way for the Master was brief and soon accomplished.

We see John as a man of rugged and intense righteousness calling on the people to repent of their sins. We see him as a man of priestly zeal emphasizing the symbols and offices of religion, baptizing people in recognition of the new experience and outlook; and we see him as a man of practical vision perceiving clearly the limitations of his own ministry and the greatness of the Messiah whose coming he was heralding.

If there is any task that is worthy to stand with all that Jesus himself accomplished, or with all that the supreme messengers and forces of truth can ever accomplish, it is the task of preparation. To make straight a highway for God is the initial stage in bringing the power of God's influence into our lives and into the lives of others.

If we find the highest inspiration for our religious lives in the Master himself, we can discover a great deal that is uplifting in the example and method of John, the forerunner.

COME to CHURCH

The Mosque of Omar, on top of Mount Moriah. Sometimes called the Dome of the Rock, it was here that Abraham offered up his sacrifice.

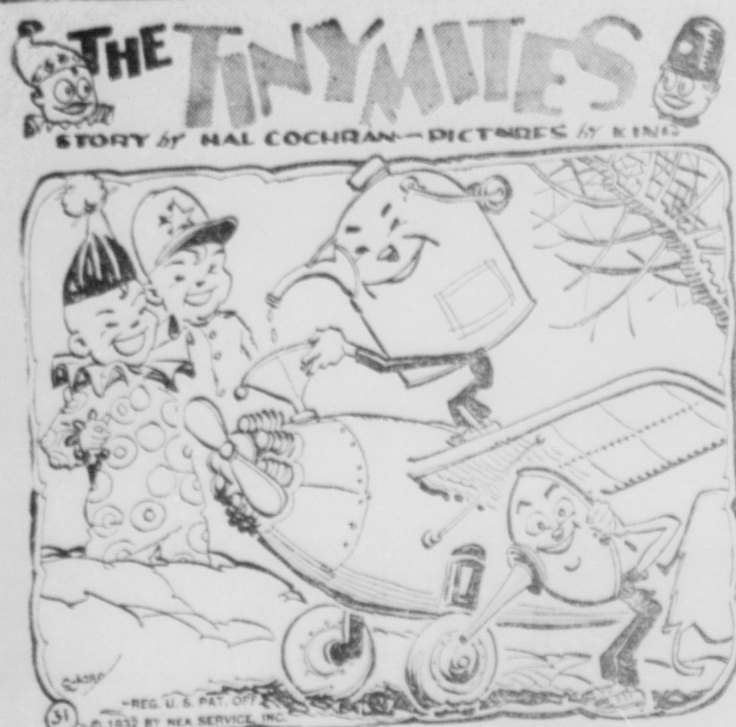

WHEREVER man exists
wherever the gospel of His word has been carried and wherever man's soul is considered above mere gold Christ is the saviour and the hope of all. The Church is a tribute to His word which none can tear asunder and which will stand tall and strong — a symbol of man's humanity for man — until the very breath of life itself shall cease — and even then be carried onward to the sphere of all Eternity.

THIS MOVEMENT IS MADE POSSIBLE BY THESE PUBLIC-SPIRITED CITIZENS WHO ARE STRIVING TO MAKE OUR COMMUNITY A BETTER PLACE IN WHICH TO LIVE:

The Tinymites heard we were DUNEY shout. These two can't wait to help us out. Let's take them to our plane and then we soon can fly away.

"The gas can will fill up our tanks, for which we'll give it heaps of thanks." And I'll fill up the whole machine," the oil can said, "Hurray!"

And so the whole bunch started out to find the plane. "It is about a mile from here," said Scouty. "We will be there very soon."

"Gee, I can hardly wait until we fly away. My, what a thrill! I hope it does not take us long to get the plane in tune."

Each time it tipped, the oil ran out. The can then heard kind Scouty shout, "That's handy. If you keep it up, we'll soon be in the air."

And then the gas can shouted, "Hey!" You Tinymites look up this way. Your tank is filled up to the top and so my work is done.

"I've finished too," the oil can cried. "The plane's all ready for a ride. Just whirl the big propeller. That will make the engine run."

(The Tinymites sail away in the next story.)

WHAT OF 1933?

The year 1932 will go down in the annals of the country as one of the dark years of our national history. Hardships and privations clearly upon the surface, but which many of us who are still comfortable in spite of some minor losses, have scarcely recognized, have been widespread over the land. With food enough and to spare, thousands have been hungry, and many, not so long ago prosperous and comfortable, have been thrown into the depths of despair.

All of these hardships and privations appear to be so unnecessary in the light of the abundant natural resources of the country and the tremendous resourcefulness of human ingenuity and our productive machinery. All of our people should be comfortable in the midst of natural resources so bountiful and so widespread. These hardships and privations have not been due to what have been called "acts of God,"—storm, flood, earthquake and pestilence. They are the result of men's inability to master the economic machinery which they themselves have created.

We are naturally a hopeful people. Most of us look forward into the year 1933 with a good deal of hope. When the break came in 1929, most of us thought the trouble would be of short duration. Each year we have looked forward hopefully to the end, and each year thus far we have been disappointed. As George Soule has pointed out in the New Republic of December 28, the problems over which the technocrats have thrown such a scare, are not new problems. And if the facts are as they contend the people of America will solve the problem in harmony with the facts.

The difficulty has been,—and to some extent it still exists,—that the problems of society have not yet been faced in the interest of the common good by the men who control in business and in public life. When they are faced in the interest of all the people, we believe that a better system will come. This is a time when all good men should come to the rescue of a society that is sick, and sorely needs the wise and unselfish direction of the social physician. And the question is whether the year 1933 will witness a more resolute and a more general co-operation among our leaders to lift the country out of its present condition. It can be done. It will be done if we are moved by a common interest for the well-being of all our people. We begin 1933 with hope. Shall we come to its close with hopes realized? That matter is not in the lap of the god. It lies with human beings who hold the power in their hands.

1932 has been a naughty year. In print and in cartoon, over the whole land, the year has been pictured as a bad boy or a worthless hobo, while 1933 is universally welcomed as a child of hope.

Strange it is how we become the victim of purely artificial divisions of time, as if magic were worked at 12 midnight, December 31, and January 1 was of necessity radically different from the day which preceded it. We measure time by round numbers. An official who has broken down after 23 years of service wants to hang on till he rounds out 25 years, much to the annoyance of his fellow officials, and much to the hurt of business. The ancient Jew found a sacredness in the number 7, and every seven years marked a radical turning point. We mark our eras by decades, quarter centuries, half centuries, etc.

January 1, 1933 holds out no greater promise than December 31, 1932, but we feel that we have turned a corner, and we look forward and think we see something better ahead. It is an indication that the future has better things in store, and that the evils of the past are behind. As an expression of that hope, a new year may become a great incentive. But it should not be forgotten that turning an imaginary corner does not work magic. If 1933 is to be other than 1932, it will be the result of human agencies in largest measure. Natural calamities are not of human origin. Droughts, earthquakes, destructive storms are not of human origin. But depressions, poverty, most of human misery are within human control.

1932 is not different from any other year. Today is no different from yesterday. "Circumstances," says Emerson, "are nothing; the man is everything." If divisions of time can be utilized to review the past and plan for the future, they will serve a high purpose. Not otherwise.

THE FINAL PRESIDENTIAL VOTE

The final vote in the last presidential election is at last known. Governor Roosevelt rolled up the vast plurality of 7,054,520 votes, and a clear majority over all candidates of approximately 6,000,000 votes. This in a total vote of nearly 40,000,000. All records have been broken in the election. The total vote has been the largest ever cast in a presidential election. The successful candidate received the largest number of votes in the electoral college, the largest popular vote, and the largest plurality of the popular vote ever given to a presidential candidate. The successful candidate also carried the greatest number of states—thirty-eight—ever carried by a presidential candidate.

And this is not all. With the exception of a small territorial area in the north-eastern part of the country, the whole country was solidly united behind the successful candidate. States which never before had swung away from their traditional political moorings gave thumping majorities for the candidate of the usually minority party. California saw the greatest political revolution, not only in its own history, but in the history of any other state of the Union. In 1928, Mr. Hoover's majority over Smith was 542,958. In 1932, Mr. Roosevelt's majority over President Hoover was 476,255, a change of nearly a million votes.

The last election, as well as the 1928 election, revealed a breaking down of party loyalties such as the country has never known. In 1928, a number of the states of the solid South, for the first time since the Civil War, broke away from the Democratic party. In 1932, many states which had never before gone Democratic did so by sweeping majorities. That Virginia should go Republican was no greater surprise than that Iowa should go Democratic.

The disinterested political scientist cannot but rejoice in the growing independence manifested by the voters of the country. It cannot but have a most salutary effect upon both of the major political parties. It must result, if the habit continues and grows, in a higher grade of candidates; and parties will be much more circumspect in seeking after the mind and the desires of the independent voters. The only vote that determines an election is the one that goes from one party to another. The strict party vote cancels.

DISPUTE OVER COSMIC RAY

They are having a big debate at Atlantic City over cosmic rays. And there seems to be a real difference of opinion. One of the disputants is Dr. Robert Andrews Millikan, president of the California Institute of Technology. He claims that the cosmic rays are "super-vibrating light rays, discharged through creation of matter in the universe."

Opposing him is Dr. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago, and he claims that cosmic rays are "just speedy electrons, electrically charged particles moving in streams, with a velocity like that of light."

We should like to take part in this controversy, but we are unable to do so. For we can't even get hold of enough tangible matter that we can understand to make a handle of it. The truth is, if we had heard Dr. Millikan or Dr. Compton make these two statements concerning what the cosmic ray is, one succeeding the other, we probably would not have recognized that the two statements were inconsistent. But anyway, they both agree that there is a cosmic ray.

There was a time when there was a big dispute as to what electricity is. There still may be a difference of opinion, but all that is really known is that it is, how to produce it, and how to guide it. After all, it is the uses to which things can be placed that interests most of us.

METROPOLITAN AQUEDUCT PROJECT WILL PROVE RELIEF

Let us rejoice that the Metropolitan Water District will begin its operations at once, as the first money, in amount of a little over two million dollars, has come from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has agreed to buy $40,000,000 of these bonds, and as they are advertised, if there are no other bidders, they will take them up to this amount. This will release considerable money in the district, and under conditions where it will help the many.

Everybody will be aided, and it is hastening the day when this great Southwest will be taken care of with the Colorado water.

Is Third Largest
Oakland Tribune

Not all the reference books you may find will tell you correctly the name of the world's third largest city. It is Tokyo and this because the Japanese metropolis suddenly increased its limits so that it now has a population of a little in excess of five millions. Tokyo celebrated the occasion enthusiastically, calling the attention of the world that it now stands in the group with New York and London.

Robert W. Moore, who is in Tokyo as a correspondent for the National Geographic Society, was present when the city's new size was formally accepted. He writes that the only nine years ago more than 40 per cent of the area within the 15 wards that until the recent expansion comprised the city of Tokyo lay in charred ruins following an earthquake and disastrous conflagration.

However, great as that calamity was, it provided an opportunity for the far-seeing leaders of Tokyo to inaugurate a reconstruction program along modern lines. And what a vision that rehabilitation was! Where, formerly, Tokyo had been an overgrown village, spreading for miles around the palace once built by the powerful shoguns of old Yedo, there has arisen a new Tokyo with up-to-date earthquakes and fire-proof structures. The narrow, tortuous thoroughfares have been replaced by wide, straight avenues through relocation and altering of property holdings. Steel and concrete bridges have taken the place of flimsy wooden structures.

In 1930 the seven-year reconstruction program was completed on time, and the Emperor made a lengthy tour of inspection of the colossal undertaking, while a priest soared aloft in an airplane to pronounce a blessing on the rebuilt capital.

The Intention Was Noble
San Francisco Chronicle

Little Japanese school boys and girls are very good pupils. They accept cheerfully what their elders say is good for them. An example of this docility was given last week in New York. School children were asked to save their pennies to help feed the unemployed. With their subscriptions they were asked to designate what food they would wish to have purchased with their donations.

More than half of the native boys and girls specified that their gifts were to buy bread first, next meat, then milk, then vegetables. Seventeen Japanese boys and girls placed their collections of $12.37 in an envelope with a note saying that it was all to go for spinach. The dietitians will praise their wisdom and the relief committee take due notice of their good will. But little hungry American mouths would wish that their little Japanese friends would not pay so much attention to what the doctors say is good for them.

Why couldn't the sons and daughters of Nippon have made it ice cream?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

HOPE LONG DEFERRED

A thousand years from now, I'm told,
There'll be no bitter, biting cold,
No frost to fill
The air with chill
For frigid weeks together.
No frightful hurricane will roar
Across the tide from shore to shore,
There'll only be
On land and sea
Serene and placid weather.

The tempest breeding polar cap
Is slowly melting from the map,
And, when it's gone,
The day will dawn
Of mild and gentle breezes,
The earth in sunshine will be bathed,
Its loveliness will be unscathed,
And happy man
A world will scan
Where every prospect pleases.

At first it filled my soul with cheer
To learn that this terrestrial sphere
Will thrust aside
Both wind and tide
That labor to destroy it.
But it is hard to figure how
That, in a thousand years from now,
Of storm and stress
I'll still possess
The power to enjoy it.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

No wonder the ladies thought Einstein a communist. Lots of people who try to understand his theories see red.

A rich Chicagoan showed how to catch criminals. All that is needed is able detectives and a rich citizen to finance the chase.

No use fighting about wet schemes at this session, boys. To the victors belong the spoils.

The landlady should have suspected the mail bandits who got nothing but securities. She doubtless heard the loud swearing.

The ingredient that makes beer taste so flat is the decimal point.

CONSUMPTION OF CIGARETTES HAS INCREASED 38,000,000 A MONTH SINCE LAST YEAR, WHICH INDICATES THAT MEN SMOKE MORE WHEN THEY BUM ONE AT A TIME.

"Satan finds some mischief for idle hands to do," as the ancients so truly said, and it's safer to keep both hands on the wheel anyway.

You can tell the road to success by the broken friendships along the way.

There's no way to elevate this business. You can't say "newspaper shoppe" or "write-tician."

AMERICANISM: Establishing a government to make the people free and happy; taxing the people ragged to support the government.

If you could reduce by means of exercise, the human tongue would long since have joined the tail.

An operation on the head cured a criminal. Operated earlier and lowered down, equal results are obtained with an apple sprout instead of a knife.

In Chicago the thugs beat you up if you don't pay dues. A bribe a day keeps the doctor away.

ANYWAY, THIS IS TEACHING US THAT A CAR BUILT TO DO 50,000 MILES WILL KEEP GOING AFTER 20,000 MILES EVEN IF THE PAINT IS DULL.

Capital is timid, of course. And maybe that's the reason the courts try so hard not to frighten it.

Old Dad got two Christmas surprises: one when he got the presents and another when he got the bill.

When you need an extra hand, it's hard to believe the race would have discarded anything as useful as a tail.

Chicago gunmen have some honor. When they frisk a citizen, they don't call it an altruistic foreign policy.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "NOW THAT I HAVE SEEN WHAT YOUR RELIGION HAS DONE FOR YOUR PEOPLE," SAID THE VISITING HEATHEN, "I WISH MY POLKS HAD IT."

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE POT AND THE KETTLE

Governors and Congressmen and Presidents will this year be faced by many baffling dilemmas growing out of the current economic stress and the psychology it has generated.

They will, as they face decisions on public budgets, be caught in the cross-fire of demands for increasing expenditures and demands for decreasing expenditures, and at times both sets of demands will go to the extreme of the irrational.

They will be told in one breath that the purchasing power of the period must be increased, if business is to hum again, and in the next breath they will be told the purchasing power of state and national government must be squeezed down.

One state I have in mind has a total cost, outside highway expenditures, for all its boards, commissions, and institutions of about $25,000,000, with a population of about 3,000,000.

To listen to some politicians one would think that the obstacle that stands between that state and an abounding economic recovery is the excessive cost of its government.

Five minutes of pondering will reveal that if the entire cost of that state's government could be wiped out it would mean only about $3 per capita, hardly a matter to lift a state out of economic depression.

We must be careful this winter, as we listen to the tax reducers, for, while we know we must tighten the public belt and beware of even a penny of waste, we must not permit ourselves to think that government has been the only spender.

We are hearing a lot just now of the extravagantly expensive school buildings that have dotted the land.

We seemingly forget that in the last decade we were building skyscrapers, banks, and railway stations that made even our most elaborate school structures seem plucked and niggardly.

When a private industry even now sets out to build, we throw our hats in the air as if the owners were performing a patriotic service, as indeed, they are.

Let's remember that the glamorous building done by private business in the last decade came, in the last analysis, out of our pockets quite as much as did the public building erected.

And let us not forget that dollars spent just now turn the wheels of industry whether spent by government or by private groups.

Spending is an indivisible economic act; it is not, within certain limits, a virtue when performed by a private group and a vice when performed by a government.

For every possible real economy we must work ceaselessly, but we may find, if we grow irrational about cutting public expenditures recklessly, that we have both retarded recovery and wrecked institutions and services that have taken generations to perfect.

TOPMAN

The scarcest element in the human market today is leadership. We have intelligence, skill, labor. We have ideas and plans and money. We are appallingly short on leadership and this in a land where everybody has a solution for every problem that arises. A solution that spends itself in words. There is an endless torrent of words flowing over this land but it turns no wheels, drives no motors. There is nobody to direct, to command, to lead. There are plenty of men at the bottom and even in the middle of the ladder but you can name the Topmen without the aid of a directory, or a Who's Who. We have not trained children for leadership.

A leader needs first to see clearly. A vision forms in his mind and along with that must come the how and when and where of the project. He must have the power to see the idea and to see all the way through, around, above and below it. Thinkers like that have to be trained when they are found in the high schools and colleges. We don't do that. Study the men that you find at the heads of government bureaus in industrial offices, in stores and shops and you will find how few of them have the vision and the power of leadership.

He must have the power to see the idea and to see all the way through, around, above and below it. Thinkers like that have to be trained when they are found in the high schools and colleges. We don't do that. Study the men that you find at the heads of government bureaus, in industrial offices, in stores and shops and you will find how few of them have the vision and the power of leadership.

It is true that all men are not leaders. There must be a body of followers. But whom are we to follow? Make the great body of the people as intelligent as our culture will permit and you still must have leadership. In our reverence for democracy, we have fallen into the error of making every man a leader and no man The Leader. Now we must retrieve the mistake and train definitely for leadership those young men and women who show ability for it.

Vision alone is not enough. Vision is thought. Now while thought is a powerful force its power can only be harnessed in action. Thought drives one to act but if one forever stops short of the action the thought dies and leadership with it. Many and many a fine potential leadership has gone to its place in oblivion because it was never permitted to function. Usually the person who ought to lead his group lacked the courage to speak up, to act. I believe that happened because he was not trained early enough to respect his own opinion sufficiently to tell the world about it, to force it into action, to act as its mouthpiece before the world. Thought in itself will not get far. Without expression, without action, thought is futile.

When a high school student tells you his solution for this or that ill he sees in school or society ask him, "What are you going to do about it?" Keep pushing him into action, cheer for the deed. We make a mistake by putting a premium on beautifully typed pages fastened with neat and decorative bindings and so indicating that a plan is far enough to go in one day. It is nothing of the sort. It is only one step, a very tentative step. Put the premium on actual accomplishment, upon what the student did about this or that situation and head him toward leadership.

Parents and teachers have a great dread of what they call "bad," "fresh," "opinionated" children. We are mistaken. We should not those young people to work in the fields in which they are aggressive and allow them to temper their words by action and sharpen their actions by responsibility for them. That is the way to create the Topmen we need.
